Wherever that transition happens, it's quite a remarkable transition for these young companies, and everyone in it, and it can come in many different ways. One way is that, well you have a startup, at which point you're very innovative and you're trying to do things, you're trying to disrupt things. You're trying to see if there's ways of using the Internet as well as a Web for advertising, for example, so that you can own an advertisement in a newspaper, which is something that we've seen in the U.S. for a while now, right? So you've got some experiments that you're doing, and over time you're seeing what works, what doesn't work. And you get to a point where you've been testing this for a while, you know what are the problems that you have with this particular technology, it's a really nice problem to have. It feels like a really interesting problem to have and you're really proud of that, and then you're trying to figure out
