Any one can help me out. Thank in advance. A: If you have the original installation disc, you can reinstall Premiere Pro CC with the latest update. You can then import your project and start a fresh.

You can do this by: Create new Premiere Pro installation (.exe file) Download and install latest installer. On Premiere CC, click on product Choose tools... -> Import/Export Choose File Handling Tab in Import Click Browse, then choose your Premiere Pro installation disc (.exe file) Choose Ok If you don't have the original installation disc, you can download the file from Adobe Server (Put the "install.exe" inside the same folder than your project If you have a license key, you need to register/activate your application first. Then you can download the latest installer from Adobe Server (Install it and then follow the steps above. You should then be able to import your project. Q: How to view a site that's in an app on Windows Phone 8? In Windows Phone 8, is it possible to view a site that's stored in an app on a phone? It's not loading with a browser. I'm trying to view this site: If you open it in the browser, it works fine. But if I open it in the 'Messaging' tab, it doesn't seem to work. A: It seems that this site is not compatible with Windows Phone. You get a javascript error when trying to run it. You could try using Internet Explorer Mobile. I just tested it, and it does seem to work. This time last year, the St. Louis Blues and San Jose Sharks were still battling for the final playoff spot in the West. The Colorado Avalanche had shocked everyone by beating the Sharks in the first round the year prior and had emerged as one of the biggest story lines in the entire playoffs. This year, it was the Blues, who again found themselves in the exact same spot in the standings as the Sharks, who they had trounced in the Western Conference Final. The result? The Blues, again, defeated the Sharks to advance to
