Our experience for this game was pretty good! During the process of alpha and beta we had an awesome community! Thanks to everyone who took the time to help out our game. We used the help to create this awesome game you are now playing. - The story and the environment is very much inspired by 1984 and the George Orwell novel of the same name. I've had this book sitting in my backpack since I was a kid and it's always going to remind me of it. It's what got me working on this game. - What we worked on specifically is based on the Soviet Union. The sky is more like the disco light art and the mobs around you are more like the brainwashed little drones you see in the games. - The atmosphere is almost the same as the sci-fi novel "Silent Running" and not so much the movie. Just have you be a passive observer in a very real world, but you are allowed to be a part of it! - Music influences are purely based on the fact that the majority of the songs that have the best atmosphere and feel are from the 1980s. - I also included 80s movies like Farenheit 451, Dark Star, The Running Man and ... "YOLO." - The cinematics is not a replacement for the game, but it is still a big part of the experience. - The game is also fully voiced. Every single mob has their own voice and every word you are supposed to say is voiced. - The bodies are rigged in the game engine. Anybody can be thrown. - Superhuman skills will not be present in this game. RPG in the clouds New characters added! From the previous beta: "I don't know your name, but I hope it works out." - Elderly scientist Pretty Feral Dick Loftus Needleman Kirby Little Ghost Girl Julie Wynonna Big Bikin' Bustin' Dizzy Ronnie of Ron The Hands Voodoo Lily of Lily Mr. Boss Chegemon Fuzz
