7) Gameplay: In this spin on gravity puzzles, you are trying to adjust gravity (lava levels use air and water to control gravity) to create the fastest time possible. The controls are reasonably intuitive. The lava rocks move slowly and your hands move quickly in the air. When you grab a rock, you can push it around. You can grab air or water to create a faster time. In a few levels you can use two rocks in tandem to create a chain reaction that can move a barrel of water around the level in the blink of an eye. 5) Controls: Gameplay Gameplay 7) Controls: The game's controls are super intuitive. You use the left-click of your mouse to grab lava rocks. When you drag a lava rock, you can push it around with your mouse. You can grab air or water to create a faster time. You can push a rock into the air with a press of the SPACE key or you can hover it. You can grab a rock and push it towards a barrel or use it to push any of the other lava rocks. 4) Graphics: Graphics The graphics are really simple. The only thing that is not simple are the levels. I am not sure what they are trying to do but they are so tall they remind me of a UFO. Still, the graphics are pretty cool and easy to understand. 8) Sound: Sound 8) Sound: The sound effects were pretty good. They were not overly loud or annoying. I liked the sound effects. I liked the music too. 6) Game Design: Game Design 6) Game Design: The game has a lot of different puzzles. It would be a good idea for the developer to include the box some instructions and a written walkthrough to make things easier. However, the game is pretty addicting and I like the challenge of trying to beat my own time. For the most part, it does not take too long to figure out how to do each level. 5) Replayability: Replayability 5) Replayability: You can save the game and then return to the game at any time to try a different path. 6) Addictiveness: Addictiveness 6) Addictiveness: I like it when it is hard to beat my own

What's new in Project: Snowblind:

DISCOVER Milkmaid of the Milky Way - Soundtrack "Milkmaid of the Milky Way" is a wake-up call for the west coast of Scotland, informing the viewer that Scotland's wilderness areas are being logged up to allow the mega-fracking projects to progress. (more...) The release of the album features John Macleod of Capercaillie on lead vocals and guitars with, Philip King on vocals and guitars and Scott of MacLeod - Davis on bass. Great new hope for Scottish music history is documented here. The duo release their collaboration as the Glasgow Film Festival. GANG Recordings presents the soundtrack of Bruce Dickinson's documentary, Milk Maid of the Milky Way. Produced by Michael Den Heyer. As a gift to the landscape and its people, Milk Maid is a record celebrating Scotland's wilderness areas and a warning of their potential demise. Pink Floyd, featured on the album, helped launch Dickinson as the Voice of the Pink Floyd and we're pleased to announce they will reissue a third of their classic albums and re-record the sleeve artwork with their original producer. Milkmaid was also featured as part of More Music For Scotland, as recorded by ITV (Sky/D/4/Nationwide), Radio Scotland, Xtra FM, Kerrang Radio, Kerrang FM and more. Milkmaid is also available as a limited pressing of 250 copies on American Black Vinyl and standard CD, suitable for attaching to anatomy, too! We're proud to announce the release of a new collaboration between Michael Den Heyer and Bruce Dickinson. In many ways this seemed to be the collaboration we'd been waiting for. Captain Jack, Mighty Man are two albums in which we heard the same great energy, the same brave approach to post-rock and the same spirit. You could say we were listening for this album and heard it in the background of our lives, and in the quiet times between gigs in the last few years. And then the stars aligned and we decided that in the tradition of Captain Jack, we should give some kind of opportunity to musicians outside of our network, we should give the album away too. It represents the musicality of Scotland and is a gift to the landscape and its people. Produced by Michael Den Heyer. Upstairs @ Yeeha 2018 is underway. We're
