Ayush, we are very sorry for the inconvenience. We have resolved the issue and will be emailing you shortly with your login details. If you need any additional assistance, do let us know by clicking 'contact us' at the bottom of your screen. Welcome to the TecnoMETAL Forum. You must have cookies enabled to register for an account and post on our forums. If you do not, nothing should happen when you fill in the forms. But you can learn more about the features in our Account Help Page. If you have an AOL account, you must use a separate browser to access it. Click here to log in... I have tried to enter the protected forum for 5 days now and every time I attempt to login it says I need a password. My password has not changed (I have not been asked to do so) and I do not know what to enter into the password box to register. I have also tried other name and email addresses but no success. Please help as my work schedule is very busy and I can not be on here too much. My email address is (private). However you can contact me via PM in the Members only area, and I will direct you there. The IBM developerWorks forum has confirmed that the forum is not restricted in any way. Poderter PS: the posts in this topic are now considered obsolete. You can still access them if you like, but you will not be given a password as they are locked to members only.
