What's New In AutoCAD?

Get feedback without having to print! Draw on your screen and see the updated drawing immediately, right from your screen. Simplify your markup process with markup assist, which automatically suggests changes when you create or update a feature. (video: 1:11 min.) Incorporate comments into your designs right away and update your drawings without having to re-draw the details. (video: 1:08 min.) Revision-tracking and Track Changes: Reduce revision-tracking chaos and automate your changes. AutoCAD is a great tool for working with others. It's not so great for working with yourself. (video: 1:08 min.) Manage your revision history and make sure the changes are accurate. Compare two revisions and easily roll back a change. Track changes and let others know what's changed, so they can easily understand what's going on. Data Management: Upgrade to a data management platform with unparalleled functionality, including programmable reports, encryption, and a customizable data architecture. With data management, you can import, export, and track CAD data with the features and flexibility you need to manage your designs. Powerful new data management features include the ability to quickly create reports, import large files, encrypt CAD data, and assign users to groups. Data management lets you quickly generate documentation using the latest features, so your drawings can be read and reused by multiple users. Create programs that display information in a format that's useful to the people who view the data. Support for New Platforms: Get the same level of support for Microsoft Windows and the Macintosh that you've come to expect from AutoCAD. Take advantage of the latest features, such as the ability to save entire drawing packages as native PDFs, automatically save your drawings as vector PDFs for printing and exporting, and support for path coordinates in the new Drafting Coordinate Reference System (DCRS). Take advantage of the new online services with easy-to-use tools and high-quality technical support. Real-Time Collaboration: Make working with others more efficient with real-time collaboration. Create drawings in the cloud, access the same drawings online, and share annotations and drawings right away. Create or update drawings online and immediately share your work
